Sustainable development goals. 11 item. The Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) are a set of 17 Goals and 169 targets adopted by the world's governments in 2015, with a particular focus on Sustainable Development. The third of the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) will be reached by 2030, setting the stage for all other goals. There is no country missing the need to live in harmony with nature and apply a set of rules, known as the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), to improve people's living conditions and protect the environment. In order to achieve these goals, we need to give equal importance to each one of them. One of the main concerns that we have today is how we are using our natural resources and how much waste we have. To ensure that future generations have a bright future, we have to take action now. In this case, the main subject of our concern is water. The hope of eradicating poverty can only be achieved by ensuring the right to water to all. So, do not waste any more time, put an end to our thirst for all the available natural resources. Create a more sustainable world, that is what Sustainable Development Goals are all about! The SDGs are practical, so you can easily do your part to meet them, just download this virtual program and let it do the rest. Remember, "water is life!".
